

Home

Contributed by Administrator
Sunday, 24 February 2008
Last Updated Sunday, 02 March 2008

Welcome to Totaro Technologies, Inc. In us, you have found a one stop shop for your data and voice needs. A few things that set us apart are that we do not have actual salespeople. Our salespeople are actually the techs that do the work. You will get the real answers to your questions from the people that really understand the systems, the techs. You will also realize substantial saving from this approach since we are essentially cutting the middle man out of the deal. Another thing in your favor is that we understand that organizations have different needs. Most other businesses in this field will sell you the system that can be marked up the most for profit. Not us. We understand that having a happy customer and making a little profit is much more valuable than selling the customer something overpriced and unneeded while ignoring what is actually needed. Obviously, our reputation, conscious desire to make the customer happy, and just wanting to do good business is what drives Totaro Technologies, Inc.